The RATIONAL SKEPTIC'S SEARCH for GOD
Sunday, March 11

Rabbi Chaim Seidler-Feller

How does a modern skeptic who struggles with a traditional notion of God develop a way of embracing a God idea that is compelling in the modern world? Study Maimonides' rational constructions of God as well as Hasidic speculation in an attempt to develop a personally meaningful theology in the modern world. Discover the dynamic of the dual nature of God as presented in the tradition and how it can serve as a framework for contemporary spirituality.

RABBI CHAIM SEIDLER-FELLER is director of the University of California, Los Angeles Hillel. He is a fellow of the Shalom Hartman Institute for Advanced Jewish Studies in Jerusalem and is a member of the academic advisory board of the Wilstein Institute for Social Policy.
