

The winter season is a stressful time for many people across New York. As the cold weather approaches, many families in New York City may soon have to choose between buying coats for their children and themselves or paying the rent. For 33 years, New York Cares' Coat Drive has improved the lives of those in need, but this second pandemic winter is exacerbating new challenges in communities that are already struggling to stay warm. Join us to ensure that every New Yorker has a healthy winter season. Together, we will help spread the warmth.

Donations of only clean, new or gently used coats and jackets will help make the decision an easier one. If the coats are in good condition and an individual could leave with the coat feeling warm, then our partners would gladly accept the donation. That said, we encourage donors to launder or dry clean their coats before donating so they are ready to be worn right away. Please do not drop off coats at the temple as they will not be accepted. You can find organizations accepting other clothing items (such as sweaters, hats and gloves) at Donate NYC.

Following are the Coat Drive drop-off locations for NY Cares:

- Wash coats in soap and water at the highest temperature that won't damage the coats
- Store coats in a dark plastic bag or box to reduce contact
- Call ahead before visiting a location
